Dedication

In memory of that great and good man, William Lloyd Garrison, I a member of the race for whom he worked, in whom he believed, to consummate my self in the completion of that great ideal of human liberty which ever guided and inspired him.

I hereby pledge myself to fight for freedom: freedom of speech, freedom of thought, freedom to vote, freedom to enjoy public conveniences & freedom to associate with those who wish to associate with me.

I propose to enter this great moral battle with head up like a man saying as he said:

"I will be harsh as truth & uncompromising as justice."

"My reliance for the delivereance of the oppressed universally is upon the nature of man, the inherent wrongfulness of oppression, the power
"My reliance for the deliverance of the oppressed universally is upon the nature of man, the inherent wrongfulness of oppression, the house of truth, and the omnipotence of God."

"The great physicians among the negroes, to do honor to them, are in fact, through this force, of no avail; the fire cannot burn it down; the sword cannot cut it out." It is the spirit of Jesus who was sent to bind up the broken-hearted. He proclaims liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to them that are bound; to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord and the day of vengeance of our God. It is principle of self-interest to measure rational, it imposes mercy upon God. It cannot be diverted from the path of duty, though all earth and hell oppose."
I will remind the reader of any great moral interference does not depend upon numbers, and that what is government but the defense against the moral character of a people.

"It is possible that a people may bear the title of freemen who execute the work of slaves."

Therefore:
I know no man's name.
I fear no man's censure.

Our trust for victory is solely in God. We may be formally defeated—but our principles never.

I am in earnest.
I wilt not equivocate.
I will not retreat a single yard.
And I will be heard.
