Spray paint "disgusting"

As advocates of free expression, we do not condemn the right of any individual or group of individuals to promote a movement.

However, when an organization resorts to defacing property that does not belong to it, in an effort to promote an opinion, it is not only irresponsible, but insulting as well.

We speak of the recent spray-painted vandalism on the Fine Arts Center and throughout campus produced by, in this case, members of an anti-CIA movement.

This disgusting act demonstrated total lack of respect for this institution and those who attend it. We hope that the bad example set forth by those responsible does not set a precedent for further defacement of our campus.
