Darling -

I have just answered one of those wonderful Psychological Test which are the mainstay of Women's fashion magazines - This one was entitled "will you make a good wife?". According to their standards I was about a 100% sure thing. My family lived happily together, I was not beaten, unduly as a child, I like children and I ~~do~~ ^{would} not object to working, after I was married, all this gave me a very high rating. It is my candid opinion that psychologists are the bunks and that as a wife I should be due for a divorce. In short, angel, this is your first letter in six days - I apologize, I am completely discomfited over my omissions. It's what comes of marrying an intellectual and a career woman to boot. The fact of the matter is, dear, I worked every night this week but one and then I went to bed at 9:30 after cleaning my shoes. Exciting life I lead.

at the present moment, I'm leading the life of Riley. It has already gotten hot - it got hot early this summer (I think I've
